DURING WORKSHOP TIPS

Use these two simple tips to help your staff get the most out of the sessions that you have planned for your staff training.

1. 15mins lecture time only!

Limit your lectures to 15mins... I know, I know that can be hard for some of you, however studies show that absorbing information drastically decreases after 15mins of a lecture. Here is an example of a 45 mins combo learning pack:

- 1 - Lecture (15 mins)
- 2 - Group Discussion (5 mins)
- 3 - Lecture (10 mins)
- 4 - Role play (15 mins)
- 5 - Review main points & questions (10 mins)

2. Please write a question down...

Instead of asking staff IF they have questions about your session, ask them to WRITE AT LEAST ONE QUESTION DOWN. Given the time, most staff will come up with at least one question. Next, have them partner up and try to answer each other's questions. This promotes team work and problem solving, as well as helps you to gauge what the group did and did not understand. It's also a great way to promote a positive learning environment where we encourage healthy risk-taking, as opposed to "knowing it all" behaviour.

W.L.A. WE.LOVE.ACRONYMS

1. The 4 S's: A tool to help your staff and campers make good decisions.

Safety, Stewardship, Servanthood, Self-Esteem

MORE! MORE! MORE!

2. G.I.V.E. to Live: A four step process you can use every day to get your staff thinking about put others first.

CLICK HERE!

- G - Generate a list
- I - Is anyone being left out?
- V - Visualize their happiness
- E - Ego - let go

3. Teach veteran staff peer power! During staff training, returning staff often feel underchallenged. However, we know that these veteran staff can always be challenged by new leadership opportunities, such as role modeling and coaching new and young staff. Use W.O.R.P. as a tool to show them how.

- W - WELCOME: Veteran staff are good at being welcoming on the first day of staff training, but what about free time? What about when they are walking from one session to another? These are crucial moments to show what being inclusive looks like.
- O - OBSERVE: Don't jump in - watch, listen, then approach a group accordingly. Like campers, staff need an energy equalizer. By observing before acting in a group, veteran staff will have the opportunity to add the right type of energy to a group situation.
- R - ROLE MODEL: Perhaps staff meeting starts at 7:15 am, however we don't necessarily want our staff to hop out of bed at 7:12 am to arrive. Discuss/brainstorm what type of actions we want to model for the other staff.
- P - PROBLEM SOLVE: Instead of giving new & young staff the answers, ask them what they think. This is great for building trust, and veteran staff often learn something new from the exchange.

4. THE AWWwwkward 7mins walk: When staff have to accompany a family on the first day to the campers bunk, the walk/conversation can get a tad awkward... Teach A.S.K. to help with those lulls.

- A - ASK: Ask the family something specific, like their trip or a recent birthday!
- S - SHOW: Show them something on camp that is interesting.
- K - KNOW: Did you KNOW..? Tell the family something cool about what is going to happen during the day.
-  Repeat!

OTHER FUN STUFF

1. Join the IATF website (it's free!)

Webinars about leadership, connections to resources, and a library of teambuilding activities, including some that have videos.

2. Take an HR class.

This helps you protect yourself and your organization from lawsuits and when navigating sticky employment situations. or check local universities for continuing education programs

3. Get your hands on Michael Brandwein's "Training in a Flash" cards.

They provide phenomenal ideas for how to respond to common or frustrating phrases that kids say (he often shares them at his sessions at conferences!).

4. Asheville-based organization We and Me has We Connect!

Cards for teaching staff to ask connection questions and other resources for building community within your staff:

5. Kim Aycock's Pinterest boards are camp-focused and fantastic!

6. Kim Aycock's Pinterest boards part II: Staff Training Resources

Hope you find this useful, and looking forward to the next time we see each other and best of luck in your staff training adventure.
